MEMORANDUM FOR: Economic Defense Intelligence Committee
FROM : Executive Secretary, EDIC
SUBJECT : Proposed Merger of the Economic Defense Intelligence Committee as a Subcommittee of the Economic Intelligence Committee

25X1A9a 1. Attached for the consideration of the Economic Defense Intelligence Committee are copies of an exchange of memoranda on the above subject between [REDACTED] Vice Chairman, Economic Intelligence Committee, and Admiral Walter S. DeLany, Chairman, Economic Defense Advisory Committee.

2. The Chairman of EIC, Dr. Otto E. Guthe, is the Assistant Director for Research and Reports, CIA. Under terms of reference from the Intelligence Advisory Committee, this Office is responsible for providing the chairmen and secretariats of both EIC and EDIC.

3. The Chairman of EDIC recently obtained the personal views of some of the members and associate members on the proposed reconstitution of the Economic Defense Intelligence Committee as a subcommittee of the Economic Intelligence Committee. The response to this proposal was generally favorable. It should be noted also, in Admiral DeLany's memorandum, that the proposed organizational change would be satisfactory to EDAC, with the understanding that the new EIC subcommittee will "continue to serve its necessary functions in economic defense matters."

4. Formal EDIC approval of the subject proposal will be considered at a meeting to be held on 13 August 1958 at 10 a.m. in room 1121 M Building.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Admiral W. S. DeLany
Chairman, Economic Defense Advisory Committee

SUBJECT : Proposed Merger of the Economic Defense Intelligence Committee as a Subcommittes of the Economic Intelligence Committee

1. I understand Russell Hale has advised you that we are presently considering the desirability of merging the Economic Defense Intelligence Committee (EDIC) into the Economic Intelligence Committee (EIC) structure. Before we take any definitive action, however, we want to advise you of the background on this matter and to solicit your views.

2. Since 1952, the Intelligence Advisory Committee (IAC) has had two standing subcommittees concerned with economic intelligence - the EDIC and the EIC. In the period 1951 to 1955, EDIC was a very active forum for servicing the requirements of the economic defense community. A review of the activities of EDIC during the recent past reflects a reduction in the activity of this group and leads us to believe that the responsibilities of this committee could be carried out more efficiently within the structure of the EIC without impairing its ability to meet the requirements of the EDAC community. As you know, despite the reduction in EDIC activities, the economic intelligence community has provided increasing support in the field of economic defense over the past few years. However, for reasons of operational urgency and in accordance with allocations of production responsibility for various fields of economic intelligence, the responsible individual intelligence agencies have made their respective contributions directly to the EDAC group concerned.

3. It seems clear that this system of direct agency support will prevail in the foreseeable future, and that while EDIC will continue to perform a useful coordinating role, it will not reach the level of activity of its early years. It is my belief that EDIC, reconstituted as a subcommittee of the EIC, could fully satisfy the requirements which might be placed upon it by the economic defense agencies. An appropriate official of the CIA/OHR component most concerned with the subject of economic defense would be appointed as Executive Secretary of EDIC if this change were to take place, and the Chairman, appointed by the EIC, would be chosen from participating members whose agencies are most active in this field. Representation on the EIC encompasses all those departments and agencies presently represented within EDIC.

4. If this proposal has your approval, we will ask for its consideration by both EDIC and the EIC at an early date. If you have any questions, I will be happy to discuss them with you at your convenience. I would very much appreciate your views within the next week or ten days as we hope to present this matter to EDIC and the EIC around the end of this fiscal year.

ECONOMIC DEFENSE ADVISORY COMMITTEE

June 30, 1958

MEMORANDUM

To:

25X1A9a

Vice Chairman, Economic Intelligence Committee

From: W. S. DeLany, Chairman
Economic Defense Advisory Committee

Subject: Proposed Merger of the Economic Defense Intelligence Committee as a Subcommittee of the Economic Intelligence Committee

The proposal made in your memorandum of 17 June (Control No. 487269) appears adequately to provide for the future requirements of EDAC. The organizational changes satisfactory to EIC and EDIC will, for this reason, undoubtedly be satisfactory to EDAC.

After advice from you that the prospective changes have been approved, I will report to EDAC that EDIC will continue to serve its necessary functions in economic defense matters, although its organizational relationships have been altered by agreement within the intelligence community.
